Summary

I am a web developer working with React, with a strong understanding of web fundamentals, who enjoys solving problems and exploring new technologies. I am currently expanding my knowledge of back-end technologies, focusing on NodeJS and Express.

Education

HND Web Development - City of Glasgow College

City of Glasgow College (2020 - 2023)

I am currently studying HND Web Development at the City of Glasgow College, learning both server-side and client-side technologies. Goals of third-year entry to relevant university course before moving to industry full-time.

Experience

Hutchison 3G UK Limited

Retail Customer Advisor (November 2021 - present)

As a customer advisor, my responsibilities include engaging with customers, assessing their needs, and finding options that suit them best. I think that this is highly transferable to a role in web development - being able to communicate well with designers, business, and other developers is vital to the success of any project.

AG Restaurants Ltd

Crew Member (October 2019 - November 2021)

I started my career at McDonald's in a customer-facing role, developing my communication and team skills. As I progressed, I moved across the areas of the store - eventually taking on a maintenance role. The problem-solving nature of this role translated well to my early development and helped foster my love of creating innovative solutions to problems.
